

TIED TWICE.

Hyman and Miss Keating have Two Marriage Ceremonies.

The First Performed by Fr. Walsh, the Second by Rabbi Sale.

THE YOUNG COUPLE HAD PROURED TWO LUCARIES FROM THE RECORDER.

Mrs. Hyman Indignantly Denies the Story That She Renounced the Catholic Faith, and Says That She Consented to the Second Ceremony Merely to Gratify Her Husband's Wish.

On the record of marriage licenses in the office of the Recorder of Deeds for Jan. 20, appears the entry of a license granted to Morris Hyman of 4505 Evans avenue, and Alice Keating of 2710 Sheridan avenue. On the same record, under date of Jan. 20, appears the entry of a license granted to Morris Hyman and Alice Keating, both of whom are residents of residence at No. 2710 Sheridan street. Below these official announcements is a remarkable story, which, when disseminated from a film of interested indirections of speech, seems to authorize the statement that the contracting parties (the same couple) were married first by Catholic and later by Jewish rites; and that neither embraced the faith of the other, although statements that the bride became a Jewess are made by members of the groom's family, and even by the groom himself.

The groom is a tailor by trade, but is at present with his father, Charles Hyman, who has a meat and vegetable shop at No. 2710 Mayfield street. The groom's parents reside at No. 2740 Sheridan street; the bride's mother at No. 2710 Sheridan avenue, and the newly married couple at No. 4505 Evans avenue.

On Saturday night a reporter was sent to the residence of Rabbi Sale to ascertain whether he had received the bride into the Jewish faith prior to the marriage of the couple, which ceremony, it was said, had been performed in his house. Dr. Sale appeared at an upper window, and the object of the call was disclosed. A repetition of the information of the Post-Dispatch concerning the marriage was given, and the names of the groom and bride were mentioned. Dr. Sale did not seem surprised by the statement, nor did he intimate that there wasught that was incorrect about it, but he courteously declined to discuss the matter that evening.

version of his daughter-in-law's alleged conversion to Judaism was printed, but was not associated with the statement, and the facts would be published if they could be ascertained.

The reporter followed the reporter out of the store, and around the corner, where he stated that his wife had indeed embraced the Jewish faith, but that she had denied that any Catholic ceremony had been performed. He said that the matter had been a subject of considerable discussion, and such determined opposition to it on the part of his friends that he and his wife decided to let it go.

Dr. Hyman said that he was purposing to come from his mother, and he stated that he recognized the handwriting of his mother's signature on the marriage certificate he had seen, but he presumed that his mother authorized it.

Fr. WALSH MARRIED THEM.

Fr. Thomas Walsh of St. Bridget's, who the girl claimed had performed the ceremony, was the confessor of her religion, was seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter at his residence. He confirmed Miss Keating's statement.

"The couple came to me," he said, "two or three times several weeks ago, and told me that she was a Hebrew and I explained to him that I would not perform the ceremony. He said that he was a member of the High Priests' family. However, if he had given up his old religion and was without a faith I told him I could get a dispensation and marry him."

"He gave me his word that such was the case, and I promised to communicate with the two priests last night married them in my parlor here in the presence of the girl's father and of Mrs. Mollie Brennan, Kinsella's mother.

The statement of Rev. Fr. Walsh settles the question about two marriage ceremonies having been performed, but the first was that at which St. Bridget's pastor officiated.

With regard to what transpired at Dr. Sale's residence Mrs. Keating-Hyman stated that no ceremony was performed other than the marriage performed by the Jewish religion. She had told her that it was not necessary that he did not become a Jew, but believed in such conversions, and that her own consciousness did not give her Christian faith, and she ascribed to the man.

MALAY PIRATES.

They Attempt to Board a British Ship in Sunday Straits.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—Capt. Treffey of the British ship Celeste Burrill, which arrived here from Luson Islands with a cargo of hemp and sugar, thinks that his vessel had a narrow escape from being boarded by pirates in Sunday Straits, a stretch of water formerly as famous for its Malay freebooters as was ever the Spanish Main for its buccaneers.

According to Capt. Treffey's story he was bound on toward the Sunday Straits. When about sixty miles from them he sighted a boat filled with men. At first he paid no attention to the boat or its occupants. After the Burrill had passed New Anjer, a Dutch military settlement on the coast of Java, and was well inside the straits, the boat pulled up rapidly the slow moving ship, and finally pulled up alongside. The boat was crowded with men, and the crew of the Burrill pretended that he wanted to eat fruit, but Capt. Treffey doubted his motives.

After remaining on board for some time and the ship having cleared the straits, and the crew having cleared the straits, the crew of the Burrill had escaped. The occupants were thrown out of the stables for want of attention.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—In the Reichstag to-day Herr Freidberg, National Liberal, asked what was the Government's position in regard to the Coburg succession question. Herr Freidberg said that the dual position of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha as a German sovereign, and as a Prince of a foreign State, was incompatible with German national feeling and he suggested that the Duke should renounce his British nationality. That the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha was the lawful sovereign of the duchy and that his sovereign excluded all dependence upon a foreign State.

REQUIEM FOR FR. KEGAN.

Impressive Services Held at St. Malachy's Church.

A solemn requiem mass for the repose of the soul of the late Fr. Kegan was celebrated at St. Malachy's Church, Ewing and Clark avenues, this morning. Rev. Fr. Fenlon was the celebrant, Rev. Fr. Cunningham, subdeacon, Rev. Fr. McGlynn, Master of Ceremonies. Rev. Fr. Ziegler, pastor of St. Malachy's, preached a eulogy of his dead assistant. PRESIDENT MCKINLEY would need Sec-

THE Birmingham Age-Herald says the devil has free coal. It must be agonizing to protectionists to be roasted by coal that paid no duty.

WORK on Forest Park Lake will probably commence this week and the event should be signalized by liberal contributions to the fund.

THE husbands of the New York ladies who have to pay $2 for every bathing and clipping of a poodle will find the income tax a sore burden.

THE best part of Admiral Benham's prompt and courageous assertion of American rights was the wise discretion with which it was done. His example is a wholesome one for American naval officers.

It is a good thing those Spanish jack-asses bound for Missouri did not pass through Washington. They might have heard Boutelle's voice and kicked themselves to death.

It is said that good telegraph poles are hard to get, the supply being well-nigh exhausted. Maybe that is why the Bell Telephone Co. is so anxious to put its wires underground.

THE Bell Telephone Co. proposes to fight the patent cases upon which so much depends, which is a reminder that Atty-Gen. Olney was connected with that corporation as counsel before he took his present office.

CHAIRMAN WILSON was the guest of honor at the annual dinner of the New York Board of Trade, but that fact did not restrain the members from insulting him.
But then he does not expect courtesy from the plutocracy.

FEAR is expressed that the members of the third House will have too much influence with the members of the Senate when the tariff bill is considered. The danger, however, comes from the Senators who also have seats in the third House. There are too many of them.

THE question of Mrs. Maybrick's guilt or innocence does not seem to have disturbed the English authorities. It is the meddlesome American agitation that has determined their course toward her and kept her in prison. This sort of justice would be condemned even in Turkey.

SEVERAL millions have been lopped from the appropriation bills, but this method of messing the Republican deficit is not yet exhausted. When the expenditures are reduced to a basis of strict economy the problem of how to reduce taxation and avoid a deficit will be easier to solve.

MR. ROCKEFELLER is getting ready for the business revival by buying all the iron mines of the Lake Superior region, and even investing in Cuba and the South.
While others howl calamity Mr. Rockefeller takes advantage of the nonsense. He expects to be the first billionaire of this billion-dollar country.

CONGRESSMAN SIBLEY of Pennsylvania resigned, but has since changed his mind and wants his resignation back. The precedent is, however, that such resignations do not go back. As Sibley voted against the Wilson bill as an assistant Republican his disappearance from the House will cause no grief among Democrats.

IN Chicago a "deserted" woman was robbed of several hundred dollars while crowding, in to get relief with other needy persons, and at Sedalia a man gave up a job at $20 a month to go and eat food provided for the unemployed. Nothing like these incidents can occur in the carrying out of the Lake Employment scheme. The money will go to honest work, "he will honestly earn it."

If it is true that horses, a barouche, a coupe and a buggy a Cabinet member were bought overnment money, and that the stable rent, as well as the wages of the horses, are paid by Uncle Sam, the name of that Cabinet member should at once be given to the press. If the old Republican abuses are to be continued under a Democratic Administration, let us have all the facts.

YESTERDAY 75,000 copies of the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH were printed and distributed to readers. Each copy contained thirty-two pages of news and an attractive reading matter, and was accompanied by the POST-DISPATCH MID-GATE, which has gained extraordinary popularity among the little folks.
As a newspaper and as an advertising medium it was incomparably superior to all competitors.

MR. WHEELER H. PECKHAM is a typical Good Citizen. He is one of the men who believe in Reform and Honest Politics and a Pure Civil Service and several other Capitalized good things. Like most citizens of this sort he does not have much time to spare to take part in elections, and as for the primaries, they are too shocking for him to participate in. In the special election for Congressman in New York the other day he did not vote. In fact he did not know there was an election. But he is a resolute foe of corrupt officeholders.

EVERY American should turn up his trousers for a few days. The Prince of Wales is friendly to our Ambassador. In distinguishing him above other foreigners socially His Royal Highness has done us great honor. It is to be hoped that the party under plutocratic control has so long been repeating the false promises which the people under the party of labor. The party of the people asks judgment only upon its actions.

THE acquisition of the iron mines of Lake Superior by John D. Rockefeller gives the great "oil king" a practical monopoly of that mineral in the United States. The ore is so easily extracted that workers in most other mines cannot hope to compete with him when the necessary transportation facilities are established.

THIS event makes it, more than ever necessary, to put iron ore on the free list to save Americans from the rapacity of their fellow-countrymen. Any duty on that product will be so much given away without an equivalent to a man who is said to be already loaded down with more than a hundred million dollars. To help Albert Edward is inspired by the example of Emperor William, who waits impatiently at the palace window to see the gorgeous equipage of our Berlin Ambassador drive up.

THE poverty pie made by the Bell Telephone Co. is hard to understand in view of the enormous profit made by that monopoly last year.

The income in 1893 was $360,000, or about $100,000 more than the worth of the plant, which can be replaced for about $200,000.

The absurdity of Mr. Durant's piteous plea for more concessions, higher prices and lower taxes is apparent in the face of those figures.

THE operating expenses of the concern are certainly not more than $60,000, which is an outside estimate. Add to this the royalties on patents which the stockholders pay to themselves. Nobody knows what these are, but conceding even the highest prices it is impossible not to see that the Bell company is an enormously profitable concern.
Probably the people of St. Louis pay not less than $250,000, not for services rendered, but as pure tribute to this corporation which enjoys the taxing power.

FOR years the municipalities of the United States have yielded to "bluffs," and the Bell company has gradually acquired monopoly power of the most oppressive kind. How much longer it will enjoy its valuable privilege to take something for nothing depends altogether upon the patience of the American people.
St. Louis it begins to look as if the stock of patience was well nigh exhausted.

Transactions like this emphasize the necessity for some better measures of relief than have yet been had. The Sherman anti-trust law has never really been tested, owing to the lukewarmness or positive hostility of two attorneys-general.
There is good authority for the belief that it is constitutional, but whether or not it will be effective can be determined only by actual trial.

But to really destroy monopolies of this kind probably something more drastic will be needed. And it is to the States that we must look for the surest remedy.
The power of taxation can be exercised with good effect when it shall appear that the profits of the business are due in any degree to monopoly. This is a fair object of taxation, and no wrong would be done in wiping out, if necessary, every dollar of income which comes not from investment and labor but from privilege and monopoly. We shall have to meet this question at some time, and Mr. Rockefeller is doing what he can to bring it to an acute stage.

SHIFTER FOR SENATOR HILL.

The Senators who are opposing Wheeler H. Peckham's confirmation in the Senate are no longer without good reason for urging its defeat on the ground of his unfitness for the Supreme Bench. Mr.
Peckham himself has put into their hands the gravest charge against his competence for the high office to which he has been nominated by failing to vote in the recent congressional election in New York City.

Mr. Peckham is a resident of the district in which Brown was defeated by Quigg.
It was a Democratic district and the victory of Quigg was trumpeted abroad by the Republicans as a vindication of their policy and proof of popular reaction against Democratic policy as set forth by the programme of the Democratic majority in Congress. It was exploited as a protest of the people against the Wilson bill. The defeat of Brown was undoubtedly a great blow to Democracy, and an attempt was made to modify its force by charging it to the treachery of Tammany.

BUT now come the Tammanyites with the accusation that neither the nominee for the United States Supreme bench nor his nephew, Rufus H. Peckham, voted in the election, although both are residents of Brown's district. The truth of the accuse is admitted by Nephew Peckham, who pleads in extenuation of the fault that he and his uncle forgot that there was an election. "We had not been asked to vote," he says, "either verbally or by circular, and in the hurry of business we forgot all about the election until it was too late."

This explanation is doubtless true, but its truthfulness does not mitigate, but rather enhances the gravity of the offense.
It is a confession that the first sacred duty of citizenship and the interests of his country are so lightly regarded by Mr.
Peckham that he can forget so important a matter as a Congressional election in his own district. His private business can wholly drive out of his mind the duty he owes to himself, his party and his country.

He justifies Senator Hill in adding to the charges that Mr. Peckham is indifferent to his party's success the further charge that he is careless of his country's good.

Mr. Peckham has posed as the opponent of vicious elements in politics. Yet neglect of the duties and privileges of citizenship is the opportunity of these elements. It is the greatest danger which confronts free institutions. It is the discriminating test of good and bad citizenship: Can a man who gives an example of bad citizenship be entrusted with the great office of guarding the fundamental rights of the people?

Mr. Peckham has given his own and Mr.
Cleveland's enemies much comfort and a chance to undo him.

ACKNOWLEDGES IT.

Charles F. Tuemler Admits Marrying Miss Luella Rosborough.

SURPRISED WHEN HE LEARNED HIS SECRET WAS OUT.

After Confessing Having Married, He Left Home and Has Not Since Been Seen—Not Known Where the Young Couple Are Stopping—Charles Busham, the Jilted Suitor.

There is no doubt that Charles F. Tuemler and Luella Rosborough were married at Clayton last Thursday. The story of their elopement, as published exclusively in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, fell like a bombshell upon the happy pair, and forced a confession from the youthful bridegroom, who had vainly hoped that his secret would remain unknown for some time to come.

Late in the afternoon, after the reporter had visited the Tuemler residence, 1220 Cardinal avenue, and informed Mrs. Tuemler that her son had indeed been married, the young man emerged from his home, perfectly unconcerned, and confident that no one was aware that he was a recently made husband. When his mother asked him about his marriage he was dumbfounded, blushing and confused, as he first tried to deny the fact, but lastly, after he had made a virtual confession, he told his sisters that he had expected to live at home for a long time, but that when he covered his secret he had intended to keep them in ignorance until the summer. He had not told his parents of his secret, as the affair had not some justifying, noble story of its own, which rendered his stubborn, and he would be in a huff.

CHARLES F. TUEMLER LEAVES AGAIN.

Early Sunday morning he dressed himself and came down stairs. His mother asked him to tell her what he was going to do, and he replied that he was going to purchase a newspaper, and would be back immediately. This was the last seen of him at his home, and his relatives are now in search of him.

Mrs. Tuemler and her daughter cried bitterly, but the two did not discuss the matter with a reporter. Their principal regret seemed to be that Charles had taken his secret stepson without consulting them.

They were anxious to meet their son again, but he had not returned to the city, and they feared that he might have made a life of it in the country.

The newly-married pair are present, but could not be ascertained. That they are in the city is certain, but the relatives of both are anxious to know where they are about. At the Rosborough residence, 1211 Clark avenue, a sister of the bride said that she had heard nothing of her brother, and that he had not been home and did not know where he was.

CHARLES F. TUEMLER'S FEELINGS.

Charles Busham, the young fellow to whom Miss Rosborough was engaged at the time she eloped with young Tuemler, feels his position very keenly. Yesterday, John and this morning the Rosboroughs received a letter from him, the contents of which they refused to let us see. The information was imparted, however, that he was evidently "very much cut up."

Mrs. Tuemler did not return to her son again soon. She does not know where he has any money, and believes he will come home before long and fully acknowledge everything.

Only a Drunk.

This morning an unknown man, unconscious at the Wabash track and Adelaide avenue, created some suction when he had been found drunk and lying by the track, but after an investigation, it was found that the unknown was dead drunk. He was brought to the Fifth District station to sober up. He could not give his name.

Avenged a Sister's Wrongs.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 5.—R. C. Ross, cashier of the Bank of Scottsboro, Ala., was killed at Stevenson, Ala., yesterday morning by the four Skelton brothers. The killing was the result of an untoward intimacy between the Anna, the 19-year-old sister of the four Skelton men. The Anna's affairs were discovered from letters found in the girl's trunk by her sister, who lives at Little Rock, Ark. The Anna's brother, John, was shot and killed Saturday night and the Sunday night in the Third District station. The Humane Society has offered a $100 reward for the apprehension of the Welsh on hand to prosecute the woman. He will make an effort to have the child taken away from her.

REFUSED MEDICINE.

Arthur Claus, a Christian Scientist, Dies of Morphine Poisoning.

This morning Deputy Coroner Albers held an inquest at 2111 Prairie avenue on the remains of Arthur Claus, 28 years old, who died last Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, supposedly from an overdose of morphine. Claus was a wood carver and he came home on Friday evening suffering in great pain in the head. He had been in the habit of taking morphine, and his wife added that the use of the drug gradually to him, thinking it would relieve him. He did not improve, and on Saturday Dr. S. SERVED LEARY.

The Police Find the Witness Against Jim Butler in Short Order.

It is now almost certain that the shooting of James Leary by City Attorney James Butler in the immortal resort 201 Chestnut street last Christmas, will be investigated by the present Grand Jury. The case will be coming up to the grand jury before that body. On last Saturday the Sheriff's office, after a fruitless search and chase after James Leary, the victim, gave up the hunt in despair, and into the affair the grand jury came. The present and the prosecuting witness was turned over to the police, who were requested to try to get the services of Leary. The suspect was turned over to Detective Jim Smith, and last night after a few hours' search that officer succeeded in getting Leary, who was to appear before the Grand Jury in Dougherty's saloon on Sixth and Elm streets. The sheriff's deputies searched for Leary for nearly three days and failed to find him.

Dunning, on Jan. 27, was found in Kankakee, Ill., at the races. Though a drinker, he was never known to become helplessly intoxicated, and in view of the very reverse of a spending life, it is believed he has stashed $700 and $800 on his person when he sold his stock. Dunning was a bachelor, about 60 years of age and was believed to be worth three-quarters of a million of dollars.

FINAL BATTLE.

To-Day May Decide the Fate of the Brazilian Revolt.

With His Full Strength Da Gama Prepares to Attack Peixoto.

ALL HIS SHIPS PLACED IN FIGHTING POSITION LAST NIGHT.

A Decisive Engagement Locked For Before Nightfall—Foreigners Believe It Will End in the Rebel Admiral's Defeat and Extermination of the Revolutionary Movement—Honors to Brazil.

(Copyright, 1894, by the Associated Press.) RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 5.—Unless present indications turn out to be incorrect the fate of President Peixoto and Admiral da Gama and his followers will be decided to-day.

During Saturday night and Sunday the insurgents steamed their ships into position of advantage, preparatory to making a thorough and decisive attack upon the Governmental positions at Niteröio especially.

For this is a final and decisive effort upon the part of the insurgents, and that on its success everything depends, so far as the revolution is concerned.

It is expected that before 12 o'clock to-day the insurgents will succeed in landing at once on shore, which, covered by the fire of the rebel vessels, will advance upon the Governmental positions and the final battle is then expected to be fought.

The foreign warships are closely watching the operations and there has been no further interference of any sort up to the time this dispatch is filed.

The general opinion ashore seems to be that the insurgents will be defeated and that the collapse of the rebellion in this part of the country at least will immediately follow.

Honoring Benham.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Admiral Benham's future may be affected by the recent incident in Rio harbor, and the resolution introduced by Representative Money comprising the Admiral. CURE FOR HARD TIMES.
Henry George Explains the Causes, and Points Out the Remedy.

New York, Feb. 5.—Henry George addressed a crowded house last night at the Manhattan Singing Club. Mr. George was introduced by the president of the club, Mr. Alfred B. Mason, and was greeted with three cheers. He began his address with a reference to the Liberty Bell, which had been sent abroad to call the public's attention to the need of charity. "That bell was rung in memory of the birth of liberty," he said, ringing twice a downward toll.

He then said that, in hard times, he declared to be but an intensification of the poverty which had been chronic for years.

The band had been increased by the tremendous increase of late years, which had brought about a band boom that had burst. As soon as the public passed over land values would go up till the boom was over.

Mr. George criticized President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor for profiting from the tax on the American people, and not one the right one. He favored the labor movement, advocating a better cure than organized charity, instead of unorganized. The holding down of land values, he said, was the cause of the band boom.

There was enough idle land on Manhattan Island to set every one at work if the people would work.

Mr. George's golden key that would unlock the idle land of the country.

Henry George's speech was well received.
